

Contents

|                                                                                              |              |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------|
| List of Figures                                                                       | iv    |
| List of Tables                                                                        | ix    |
| List of Symbols                                                                       | x     |
| List of Acronyms                                                                      | xxi   |
| Preface                                                                               | xxiii |
| Acknowledgements                                                                      | xxiv  |
| 1 Introduction and literature review                                                  | 1     |
| 1.1 Motivation . . . . .                                                                     | 3            |
| 1.2 Structural colour . . . . .                                                              | 4            |
| 1.2.1 General literature . . . . .                                                           | 5            |
| 1.2.2 Butterflies . . . . .                                                                  | 8            |
| 1.3 Models for the wing of butterflies . . . . .                                             | 14           |
| 1.3.1 One-dimensional models . . . . .                                                       | 14           |
| 1.3.2 Two-dimensional models . . . . .                                                       | 16           |
| 1.4 Modelling multilayers . . . . .                                                          | 18           |
| 1.5 Modelling volume diffractive structures . . . . .                                        | 20           |
| 1.5.1 Scalar methods . . . . .                                                               | 21           |
| 1.5.2 Rigorous methods . . . . .                                                             | 21           |
| 1.5.3 Multilevel structures . . . . .                                                        | 23           |
| 1.6 Photonic crystals . . . . .                                                              | 24           |
| 1.6.1 Modelling photonic crystals . . . . .                                                  | 25           |
| 1.6.2 Layered two-dimensional photonic crystals . . . . .                                    | 28           |
| 1.6.3 Three-dimensional photonic crystals for visible andnear infrared regimes . . . . . | 31           |
| 1.7 Optical spectroscopy . . . . .                                                           | 35           |
| 1.7.1 Supercontinuum generation . . . . .                                                    | 36           |

|          |                                                                                   |            |
|----------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 1.7.2    | Supercontinuum generation in photonic crystal fibres . . . . .                    | 37         |
| 1.8      | Conclusion . . . . .                                                              | 40         |
| 2 | Theory of layered photonic structures                                      | 42  |
| 2.1      | Maxwell's equations in periodic media . . . . .                            | 44         |
| 2.1.1    | Two-dimensional problems: the Helmholtz equation . . . . .                 | 48         |
| 2.1.2    | Propagation in periodic media . . . . .                                           | 49         |
| 2.1.3    | The rectangular lattice . . . . .                                                 | 50         |
| 2.1.4    | The centred rectangular lattice . . . . .                                         | 57         |
| 2.2      | Diffraction . . . . .                                                             | 60         |
| 2.3      | Numerical computation of the diffraction of layered photonic structures . . . . . | 63         |
| 2.3.1    | Finite-difference time-domain method . . . . .                                    | 64         |
| 2.3.2    | Near-field to far-field transformation . . . . .                                  | 72         |
| 2.4      | Conclusion . . . . .                                                              | 74         |
| 3 | Fabrication of volume diffractive structures                               | 76  |
| 3.1      | Motivation . . . . .                                                              | 77         |
| 3.2      | Technology . . . . .                                                              | 77         |
| 3.2.1    | Deposition of dielectric mirrors . . . . .                                        | 77         |
| 3.2.2    | Masking and etching . . . . .                                                     | 83         |
| 3.3      | Two-dimensional structures . . . . .                                              | 85         |
| 3.4      | Three-dimensional structures . . . . .                                            | 86         |
| 3.5      | Conclusion . . . . .                                                              | 88         |
| 4 | Visible to near-infrared spectroscopy and device characteri-sation    | 89  |
| 4.1      | Qualitative analysis . . . . .                                                    | 90         |
| 4.2      | Experimental setup . . . . .                                                      | 92         |
| 4.2.1    | Near full 360° light scattering spectroscopy . . . . .                            | 93         |
| 4.2.2    | A fibre source of coherent white light . . . . .                                  | 97         |
| 4.3      | Light scattering of Morpho wing . . . . .                                  | 99         |
| 4.4      | Light scattering of two-dimensional surface photonic crystals . . . . .           | 103        |
| 4.5      | Conclusion . . . . .                                                              | 107        |
| 5 | Numerical modelling of layered two-dimensional photonicstructures     | 108 |
| 5.1      | Numerical computation: method and issues . . . . .                                | 110        |
| 5.2      | The diffraction of Morpho -type dielectric structures . . . . .            | 117        |

|          |                                                                                                             |            |
|----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 5.2.1    | Rectangular lattice . . . . .                                                                               | 120        |
| 5.2.2    | Tapered rectangular structures . . . . .                                                                    | 124        |
| 5.2.3    | Centred rectangular lattice . . . . .                                                                       | 127        |
| 5.2.4    | Asymmetric tapered structure . . . . .                                                                      | 131        |
| 5.3      | The diffraction of $\text{SiO}_2/\text{Si}_3\text{N}_4$ lamellarvolume diffractive structures . . . . . | 134        |
| 5.4      | Conclusion . . . . .                                                                                        | 141        |
| 6 | Discussion                                                                                           | 143 |
| 6.1      | The mechanisms of colour production on the wings of Morphorhethenor . . . . .             | 144        |
| 6.2      | Artificial photonic structures inspired by Nature . . . . .                                                 | 160        |
|          | Conclusion                                                                                           | 164 |
| A | Plane wave method                                                                                    | 167 |
| A.1      | Plane wave method . . . . .                                                                                 | 168        |
| A.2      | Plane wave method in one dimension . . . . .                                                                | 169        |
| A.3      | Plane wave method in two dimensions . . . . .                                                               | 172        |
| A.3.1    | The rectangular lattice . . . . .                                                                           | 174        |
| A.3.2    | The centred rectangular lattice . . . . .                                                                   | 175        |
| B | Process parameters for nanofabrication                                                               | 177 |
| C | Transfer matrix method for isotropic thin-films                                                      | 180 |
| D | Design of goniometer for spectroscopic applications                                                  | 185 |
|          | Bibliography                                                                                         | 190 |