We envision a world where all people are empowered by the Web. Everyone — regardless of language, ability, location, gender, age or income — will be able to communicate and collaborate, create valued content, and access the information that they need to improve their lives and communities. The creativity of the billions of new Web users will be unleashed. The Web’s capabilities will multiply, and play an increasingly vital role in reducing poverty and conflict, improving healthcare and education, reversing global warming, spreading good governance and addressing all challenges, local and global.

(3) We engineer single-issue information systems with regard to end user requirements, missing the bigger picture.

The web is not a thing acting alone. Computers cause nothing, but humans and computers together remake worlds. paraphrasing Donna Haraway, Social Theorist

I think we have a duty to make sure [the Web] will develop in a way that is stable and pro-human
